Pass Prepares for Heavy Influx of Motor Tourists

BLAIRMORE—The Crow's Nest Pass area is expecting a heavy influx of tourists this summer for Jubilee Year as motels, hotels and camp sites are already being enlarged and remodelled for the coming season. According to reports from the motel owners the traffic is beginning to show signs of activity as visitors from a number of American states are appearing on Canadian highways. Motels at Coleman, Blairstown, Frank and a new one at Lundbreck are building additional units to handle the flow of tourists.

Meanwhile, the Crow's Nest Pass Tourist Association has started its drive for membership for 1955 and it is expected the organization will take a leading role in bringing tourists into the area. During last year a large number of pamphlets describing the attractions in the area went to many Alberta, British Columbia and American centres by the Association which is promoting this area as a tourist area.

Highways through the area, with the exception of the five-mile stretch between Bellevue and Coleman which is now being prepared for a hard surface job, no longer tend to turn the tourist from this scenic part of the province. Wide, new concrete and steel bridges are planned for the district, which will also add to the driving ease and safety of visitors.

At present, the Coleman Board of Trade has undertaken as its number one project this year, the building of a camp shelter in the Coleman Park area which will give visitors almost all the facilities of home including electric lights, running water, stoves, etc. Camp shelters have been built at various distances along the increasingly popular Kananaskis highway which starts in Coleman and gives visitors to this district entry to excellent fishing and camping grounds and to one of Western Canada's most scenic drives.

Camp tables and benches have been set up at Lundbreck Falls, a shot of never-ceasing interest to many visitors to this area. Picnic tables and benches have been set up at Gold Creek at the eastern extremity of the Frank Slide where visitors can have an excellent view of one of the largest rock slides in the world.

Skiing in the middle of summer is an outstanding feature of this area which has never been brought to the attention of visitors and which would be a highlight of great importance. This summer skiing can be enjoyed on the slopes of Mt. Couthard located to the south of Coleman and which can be reached by driving almost to the base of the mountain, then reached by a short scenic hike.

The Crow's Nest Pass Tourist Association along with the local Boards of Trade is going out in a joint effort to bring the many attractions here to the attention of the motoring public.

Calgary Firm Will Build New Ice Arena
(Courtesy Lethbridge Herald)

BLAIRMORE.—Mayor Wm. Gray and town councilors met at a special meeting Tuesday evening and accepted the offer of the L. R. Lewis construction Company of Calgary to build the arena in Blairstown for a set fee instead of a contract.

By taking this action it will not be necessary for the town of Blairstown to call for tenders for the construction of the skating arena and the four-sheet curling rink. Construction on the new building will commence as soon as weather permits and it is expected that this will be in May. According to Mr. Lewis, the building will take approximately three and one-half months to complete, which will mean the arena will be in use this winter.

The Sports Association and council are at present investigating the costs of various types of artificial ice plants to service both the skating and curling rink.

When construction starts all local help will be used and it is estimated that from 10 to 40 men will be hired during various phases of the construction.

Kananaskis Highway Being Put In Order For Tourists

The Kananaskis road a link between Coleman and Calgary is being cleared of the heavy accumulation of snow this week to put it in readiness for the many tourists that use it during the summer months. It will be cleared and allowed to dry and necessary repairs made so that it will be useable.

The Phillips Petroleum Company who are working on a gas well some 53 miles north of Coleman are in charge of the work.

This road is used extensively by Coleman residents as well as it is the gateway to excellent fishing and hunting grounds and the road is well used by these enthusiasts; camp shelters have been constructed along the road so that tourists can stop and have a picnic lunch and make coffee as stoves, tables and benches are supplied in these shelters. Some of the most scenic spots in the Pass are to be found along this route.

Some 35 per cent of mouth cancers are cured today. About 65 per cent can be cured if the cancer is detected soon enough, the Canadian Cancer Society states.

United Church Minister To Ottawa

Rev. Blair MacPherson, minister for the Coleman and Bellevue United Churches will leave for Ottawa in July to take over the Carlton Memorial United Church Parish.

He came to Bellevue in July of 1953 till 1954 had charge of the Bellevue, Hillcrest and Cowley churches. At the end of this time he was put in charge of the Coleman and Bellevue parishes and the Blairstown and Hillcrest churches were turned over to Reverend Roy Clubb.

Mr. MacPherson is married and has one son. Alex is it not known who will take over these parishes when Mr. MacPherson leaves but the new minister in charge will live in Coleman. The new minister will take over the Coleman and Hillcrest churches while Rev. R. Chubb will be in charge at Blairstown and Bellevue.

Coleman Woman Given Farewell Party

Friends gathered at the home of Mrs. F. Guerard on Thursday evening to wish Mrs. H. McCartney, who is leaving to reside in Calgary next week, where her husband has obtained employment. The ladies present were members of the executive of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion of which Mrs. McCartney has been a member for the last six years. She was president of the club twice and also acted in the capacity of secretary.

Whist was played by the ladies with honors going to Mrs. R. Campbell, first, and consolation to Mrs. H. McCartney. Following a delicious lunch Mrs. S. Drew, president of the Auxiliary, presented a gift of jewelry to the honored guest. Mrs. McCartney thanked the ladies and expressed her regret at having to leave here and asked all to visit her when in Calgary.

On the bayonet course the rookie was particularly clumsy. He charged the dummy, stumbled, missed the bayonet jab and flattened his nose against the sack. "Nice work, soldier," said the sarcastic sergeant. "If you can't stick him ... bite him."

First reports of the Canadian Society of some 187,000 men between 50 and 70 years old showed the death rate among regular cigarette smokers was 62 per cent above the rate for men who never smoked.

According to Canadian Cancer Society statistics, 2 million Canadians now living will die of cancer if present rates continue.

Ladies Auxiliary To Legion To Sponsor Cancer Campaign

At the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion plans were finalized for the annual Cancer drive which is again being sponsored by these ladies. The town has been divided into zones with two ladies being allotted to each section. The campaign will get underway Monday, April 18 and will continue until April 30. Please give generously as possible when these canvassers call as all funds raised are urently needed in the fight against this dread disease.

The ladies are also planning a Pantry table of home cooking to be held in the Fashion Shop on Saturday, May 7th, from 2 to 5 p.m. All donations to this sale will be gratefully accepted. A raffle of fancy work will also be held in conjunction with the sale. All auxiliary members are asked to please send donations for this sale.

Blood Donors From Pass Donate 364 Pints of Blood

The Blood Donor Clinic held April 13th and 14th at the C. N. P. hospital was successful. Donors from Coleman, Blairstown, Frank, Bellevue and Hillcrest gathered at the hospital to donate 364 pints of blood.

This amount was less than contributed at the 1954 Spring Clinic, but it is hoped that those who failed to donate this time will attend the next clinic, which will be held in September.

Success of the Clinic in Coleman is largely due to the canvassers who assisted Mrs. M. Dunford in contacting the donors. A hearty thank you goes to Mrs. G. Horn, Mrs. A. Hammer, Mrs. B. Gentile, Mrs. W. Liddell, Mrs. Ross Foster, and Mrs. Steve Penney.

The Pythian Sisters of Coleman have agreed to make the September canvas for Blood Donors.

Red Cross Work Group Send Supplies To Calgary

The Red Cross Women's work group have again resumed their workroom meeting in the Legion lounge room.

Every Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. these women gather to make supplies to be sent to the group headquarters in Calgary. Anyone interested in attending these meetings is cordially invited to do so. These women are doing a wonderful job and could use a few more workers in this job.

A shipment sent by the group to Calgary on March 30th included the following articles — 10 sheets, 11 quilts, 18 baby vests, 4 girls' nightgowns, 2 pair pyjamas and 2 girls' skirts.

Last year about 6,000 Canadians were saved from dying of cancer. This figure could have been doubled if every case had been properly treated in time, the Canadian Cancer Society says.

Bird Takes Optimistic View Of the Future of Coal

(Courtesy Lethbridge Herald)

BLAIRSTOWN — The regular monthly dinner meeting of the Blairstown Board of Trade was held at the Greenhill Hotel Grill on Thursday evening, April 14, at which the guest speaker was W. Bird, the general manager of West Canadian Collieries Limited. Mr. Bird spoke on the subject of "Future for Coal", and while admitting that the industry was passing through a difficult, if not critical period, it was his view that in the final analysis coal would continue for many years to come to be Canada's greatest source of energy.

It was his view that if transportation problems make it impossible to take coal economically to industry, requiring large quantities of energy, then industry should be brought to the mine.

He stressed the point that increased industrial expansion in the West is bound to help the mines in Western Canada, and made the point that although the domestic coal business is seasonal, that one million more people in Western Canada would mean that all domestic mines in the province would work five days a week the year around, this notwithstanding the competition of substitute fuels.

A warm vote of thanks was given Mr. Bird for his address, after which a question period was a feature.

Coleman Man Wins In Bunny 'Spiel'

One of the most successful Bonspiels in Pass Curling history was held at Bellevue over the Easter weekend. This "Bunny Spiel" is an annual event which curlers from all over Alberta look forward to every year. Some 65 rinks from Edmonton, Athabasca, Calgary, Taber, Lethbridge, Clarendon, Raymond, Fort McLeod, Pincher Creek, Raymond, Fernie, and Coleman paid the entry fee of $25.00 to qualify them for the some $1,500.00 that were given in prizes.

To get things off to a good start a banquet was held in the Bellevue I.O.O.F. Hall with W. Harper acting as Master of Ceremonies. Sing songs were enjoyed with Bob Blake as pianist. President of the Bellevue Curling Club S. Richards welcomed the curlers and wished everyone success in the coming events.

The Spiel was officially opened Friday with all teams doing their best curling to try and win some of the valuable prizes on display. Draw Master M. Condon and his assistants C. Paul and S. Cleave were kept busy trying to keep all the players busy and seeing that no one was missed when the teams got down to the crucial moments. However, as all good things must end, the games were all played and those happy and lucky enough to win were presented with their prizes by President S. Richards. Winners in the various events were as follows:

Easter Parade Event — J. Parry Rink, watches E. Hasting Rink, razors J. McDonald Rink, lighters W. Sea Rink, Sweaters.

Easter Bonnet Event — F. Freeman Rink, pressure cookers J. Wilkie Rink, irons H. Zak, Sr. Rink, crushers M. Maggle Rink, shirts.

Easter Bunny Event — F. Catino, frying pans J. Kennedy Rink, steam irons V. O. Price, Pop-up-toasters S. Richards, Auto robes.

Easter egg event — Buck Jack Rink, luggage J. Maynard Rink, Coleman binoculars J. Beal Rink, trays F. Kubasek Rink, clocks.

A break in the ice making plant belting just about wrote finish to thespiel. On Sunday afternoon when those rinks still in winning positions tried their best to play on the rapidly melting ice. However, temporary repairs were made and the Spiel ended for another year with curlers already making plans to return next year for the "Bunny Spiel".

Much credit is due President S. Richards, Secretary S. Wells, Draw committee M. Condon, C. Paul, and S. Cleave for the successful event.

Bud Fisher of Coleman was the lucky winner of the $50.00 for his ticket was drawn at the conclusion of the event on Sunday evening.

The next regular meeting of the League will be held on Tuesday, May 2nd at the home of Mrs. J. Kullig.

Last year about 6,000 Canadians were saved from dying of cancer. This figure could have been doubled if every case had been properly treated in time, the Canadian Cancer Society says.

No. 4. How Did "Passing The Buck" Originate?

This expression, which means shifting responsibility originated in the cardroom. In various card games a counter or marker is placed on the table before one of the players to remind him of his turn to deal. This marker, which is to prevent mistakes as to the position of the deal, is called the Buck and is passed from player to player as the turn to deal goes around. Thus to pass the buck to another player obligates the dealer to ante for another jackpot. From this circumstance to pass the buck came to mean to shift responsibility to someone else.

Powerful Food Acids Start Decay

Every tooth in the head first started from four or five tiny buds - quite separate from one another.

Gradually they grow together, so that they become joined in one mass as a fully formed tooth crown, before breaking through the gums.

If we look closely at the surface of a bad tooth, we see that it is not flat. It has four or five high rounded points called cusps.

In between the cusps are the crevices or valley, which mark the places where the buds joined together to form the tooth crown.

You are one of the few fortunate ones if the buds that formed your teeth grew together perfectly. Most of us weren't that lucky.

When the buds do not join perfectly, the crevices between the cusps have tiny cracks, so small at first that they couldn't be seen with a powerful magnifying glass, but large enough to let in the bacteria that cause dental decay.

The bottoms of these crevices and the hidden areas where teeth touch one another are the places where decay is likely to develop.

If these places are not kept clean, sticky, pasty deposits of sweet, starchy foods will collect there. These deposits will bring about the formation of acids that cause the enamel to dissolve.

Tooth enamel will resist the hardest of metal instruments, but it gives away easily before these acids.

Once inside the enamel, the germs that make acids and cause decay work faster and easier in the softer center of the tooth, where growing conditions are ideal for them. The enamel is neglected and decay undermines it so that, finally, the unsupported enamel breaks away.

In the next article we shall tell about the tiny germs that cause decay and how they work in the mouth and teeth.

R.C.A.F. Release Results of 10-Day Operation

Ottawa, April 9, 1955 — Air Force Headquarters today revealed how nine aircrew officers spent a sub-zero 10-day period in the Alberta bush, proving that R.C.A.F. emergency rations and equipment will keep a man alive and well.

Food consisted for the most part of emergency rations, a day's meal being represented by concentrated foodstuffs that hardly cover the palm of a man's hand. Some of those undergoing the test existed with nothing but their normal flying gear, a parachute, and emergency items contained in the small seat pack which forms part of a fighter pilot's parachute harness. Temperatures ranged as low as 33 degrees below zero, and "while the group lost an average of 11 pounds each, all came through the tests in perfect physical condition. There were no accidents and no cases of frostbite."

Purpose of the exercise was to test "certain types of survival equipment under winter bush conditions, and to see just how representative aircrew would get along with only what they would have following a ball-out or crash-landing. Regular survival courses are given by the R.C.A.F. in the Alberta bush and in the Arctic, but the purpose of this exercise was to test equipment rather than to train the personnel involved."

Detailed reports on the nine officers who served as human guinea pigs are being studied as part of a continuing R.C.A.F. program to improve its survival equipment. Selection of "bush experts" was avoided, and the R.C.A.F. feels that reactions of those involved in the tests are representative of average Service airmen.

The tests were responsibility of the Climatic Detachment of the R.C.A.F.'s Central Experimental and Proving Establishment, and were carried out at a small lake about 175 miles northeast of Edmonton. Three R.C.A.F. officers supervised the tests and visited each of the "survivors" once or twice daily as a safety measure. Arrangements were made for an airift from the lake had any emergency developed.

The nine officers who played the part of survivors are:

Squadron Leader G. L. Zaleschuk, a CF-100 pilot from R.C.A.F. Station St. Albert, Sask., whose hometown is Prince Albert, Sask.

Flight Lieutenant R. E. Weigland, a radio officer from R.C.A.F. Station Torbay, Newfoundland, whose hometown is Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Flight Lieutenant D. V. Thompson, a navigator from R.C.A.F. Station Greenwood, N.S., whose hometown is Wilcox, Sask.

Flight Lieutenant B. D. Henry, a radio officer from R.C.A.F. Station Rockcliffe, Ont., whose hometown is Brackbridge, Ont.

Flying Officer W. R. Ramage, a pilot from R.C.A.F. Station Edmonton, whose hometown is Prince Albert, Sask.

Flying Officer R. E. Schwankay, a pilot from 426 Transport Squadron, Dorval, P.Q., whose hometown is Herbert, Sask.

Flying Officer J. M. Arsenault, a CF-100 navigator from R.C.A.F. Station St. Hubert, P.Q., whose hometown is Summerside, PEI.

Flying Officer J. T. Koch, a Sabre pilot from R.C.A.F. Station Chatham, N.B., whose hometown is Saskatoon, Sask.

Flying Officer L. A. Flander, a pilot from the Canadian Joint Air Training Centre, Rivers, Man., whose hometown is Fort William, Ont.

Three other officers accompanied the party on the tests, supervising them and acting as observers. Officer in charge was Flying Officer D. J. G. Soper from the Institute of Aviation Medicine, Toronto, whose hometown is London, Ont.

Squadron Leader W. T. F. Touraine, a pilot from Tactical Air Command Headquarters, Edmonton, whose hometown is Vancouver, and Flying Officer W. H. Stockdale, a radio officer from Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa, whose hometown is North Bay, Ont., acted as observers.

The party was assembled in Edmonton and on February 24 was flown into R.C.A.F. Station Cold Lake, Alta., the site of the Air Force's new air weapons range. They were given medical checks and were flown in from there the same day to a small lake about 30 minutes flying time away, aboard an Air Force Otter.

The party of three observers was established in relative comfort in a log cabin and the nine "survivors" were spotted at different points on the lake shore.

The three fighter aircrew, S/L Zaleschuk and Flying Officers Koch and Arsenault, had it tougher than did the other six. It was assumed that they had bailed out of their aircraft and they were left at widely separated points along the lakeshore, each to fend for himself.

Each was left just as he would have landed after abandoning his aircraft, wearing normal winter flying gear, with an opened parachute and a seat pack containing basic survival equipment. This included a clasp knife, short range radio transmitter, sleeping bag, and two survival food packs. A choice of certain other survival items was permitted, to bring the seat pack up to full normal capacity, but these items did not include additional food or clothes. The seat pack measures 14½ inches square and is 5 inches deep, which eliminates luxuries. Extra items of clothing, not actually worn while flying, were not allowed.

The party of six was presumed to have crashed landed in their aircraft, and while they were not better off in the way of foodstuffs, they camped in a group and were provided with many more items of survival equipment.

A small amount of game and fish was obtained by some of the "survivors" but in the main the food packs provided what the group ate during the tests. One of the fighter aircrew lived entirely on his emergency rations. Another of the fighter officers managed to catch a squirrel and three small birds, and brought half of his emergency rations out of the bush with him unopened.

Each food pack weighs 2 lbs. and contains slightly more than 2,500 calories. This provided each man with a little more than 5,000 calories for the 10-day period. The food packs contain jelly candy, shortbread, vitamin tablets, coffee mix in powder form — and an instruction sheet. This sheet describes a daily ration as being two packages of jelly candy, 1 package of shortbread, one package of coffee, and three vitamin tablets.

Placed on the palm of a hand, a "meal", representing one-third of a day's rations, leaves a lot of space showing, as one of the officers put it.

* Canadians: Herbert C. Watts of Sidney, B. C., is quitting while he's ahead; a long time driver, he got notice to come in and take drivers' tests again; he showed up and said he did not want to take the tests. "I'm 81 years old and I've never had an accident, I don't want to drive any more" . . . A lady, Miss Margaret Chiveaux of Okanagan Landing, won the Grand Championship for forage seed with alfalfa at the Calgary Seed Fair . . . Where there's a will there's a way: 24 members of the Dawson Creek (BC) Square Dancers chartered a bus and journeyed to Roycroft, Alberta, to attend a Square Dance Jamboree

. . . The Leader (Sask.) News explains about the newcomers: "The new Chinese boys are in town and open for business. Their surnames are oriental, Fong and Chow; they however have Canadian names, Pete and Tony, and by these ye shall know them" . . . at Melville, Sask., the first Chinese baby born there came to Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Shang of the City Cafe; baby is named "Meelie" . . . In the North Battleford (Sask.) News Optimist, columnist ventures into world politics, asks whether the popular song in Russia is "O Berla me not on the lone prairie" or "Melenkov Baby" . . . At Kindersley, Sask., 42 merchants lined up solid in a "cash only" business arrangement . . . At Morden, Man., fans take their hockey as seriously as they do in Montreal; The Times deplores the actions of Miami and Altona supporters who came down for a game and put sand in the gas tank of the referee's car . . . The Val D'Or (Que.) Star says it's mighty easy to be friendly to a friend, but what is needed is to be friendly to the new neighbors . . . Miss Jean L. MacNaughton protested to Chilliwack, BC, council that red oak trees were being damaged and suggested even that the city name its fine old trees so that visitors could appreciate them and not damage them . . . The Hudson Bay Post warns that "we shall never have a corner on the market, always it will be essential to promote our wares and to strive to produce better everything that we produce" . . . At Windsor, N.S., the fire department had the rural pumper out to a fire at William Parker's when the siren went again, and they had to divide the detachment and dash away looking for the other fire . . . Bill Hedley came to take over the post of fire chief at Estevan, Sask., on Monday and soon opined he was jinxed; first a giant stripping shovel worth $250,000 was almost totally destroyed at the coal mines nearby; Tuesday, a private garage razed by flames and Wednesday in a blizzard a fire of threatening proportions swept through a mid-town building.

* Altona (Man.) Echo: "Health insurance, financed by tax revenues, would be very costly, requiring thousands of civil servants to administer it and prone to abuse; careful consideration should be given to see if present plans are not preferable to a federal health insurance scheme, even though it may mean that those who cannot themselves purchase insurance may have to be supported by federal grants." * Truro (N.S.) News: "If this new life is not to be an increasing painful experience, we need to do more and more to accommodate each other. Admitting our mistakes can be a big part of that accommodation." * Grenfell (Sask.) Sun: "Consciously or unconsciously those who rail against making money which is put to productive use, are in act campaigning for universal poverty. A sound grounding in the true meaning of wealth combined with a recognition of responsibilities which go hand in hand with the acquisition of that wealth, should be required basic training for living in this present day."

* Abbotsford (BC) News: "There is no need to lose any sleep over the drop in the premium on the Canadian dollar. Our national vanity may suffer but not our pocketbooks." * High River (Alta.) Times: "In a country where there are only two parties the danger of it becoming a one-party government, viz, an autocracy, is not so great as in a country like Canada where the opposition is divided among four parties all of them in various degrees catering to the popular motion that government is or should be a glorified Santa Claus and every day in the year Christmas."

* Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune: "Every time some little official decision is made there has to be a press release, with the Hon. So-and-So having said So-and-So. You wouldn't believe it unless you had access to a typical day's mail which comes to the editor's desk. The editors have pleaded with the governments to cut out this useless extravagant, but they just keep on spending the taxpayers money like drunken sailors."

* Camrose (Alta.) Canadian: "If a few million in income tax relief could be left in the hands of the common taxpayer to be used for the purpose of general purchases, the factories of Canada would soon be resounding again with the activity of manufacturing consumer goods. And the farmer . . . is a free spender, generally. He circulates his earnings as fast or faster than the average wage-earner."

Government House Ottawa

During the month of April Canadians will again have the opportunity to show that they still believe in working together in the face of a common threat. This time the threat is cancer, the disease which is second on the list as a cause of death in Canada. The Canadian Cancer Society is asking us all to support its annual campaign.

Doctors and scientists are working tirelessly to lay bare the secrets of cancer and find effective methods of prevention and treatment. One of the objects of the Cancer Society is to support such efforts.

At the same time we must use the highly effective weapon of early diagnosis. Canadian Cancer Society volunteers, working thru some 1400 local units across the country, are doing all in their power to tell Canadians of the dangers of cancer and the importance of its early detection.

These volunteers provide sick room supplies, transportation to and from clinics, and family care for cancer patients as part of a comprehensive welfare program.

The Canadian Cancer Society is able to carry out its work of research, education and welfare only if it is generously supported through public donations, which are its only source of income. Let us give whole-hearted support to its appeal.

THE ONLY DOME SERVICE IN CANADA

To Hold National Air Cadet Week

April 21st — Canada's Air Cadets — almost 30,000 strong — will bow their heads in prayer this coming Sunday to mark the opening of national Air Cadet Week.

The League is observing the special week in order to familiarize Canadians with its work in the training of Canadian youth in the high school age bracket. League committees across the country will also appeal to the public for funds with which to carry on their work.

The Air Cadet church parades will be organized on a local basis in communities which support Air Cadet squadrons. In most instances, separate groups of cadets will march to Protestant and Roman Catholic churches before joining forces for combined street parades.

In many centres the parades will be led by Aid Cadet bands, and special services of particular interest to cadets will be conducted in the churches.

The Canadian Cancer Society is the only volunteer agency supporting a comprehensive program of education, service to cancer patients, and research for the control of cancer.

Governor-General Endorses 1955 Cancer Campaign

In a statement released from Government House in Ottawa, His Excellency, The Right Honorable Vincent Massey, has endorsed the nationwide cancer campaign which began April 1st, 1955.

The Governor General stated that "During the month of April Canadians will again have the opportunity to show that they still believe in working together in the face of a common threat." He emphasized that all the Society's funds come from voluntary donations and urged Canadians to give whole-hearted support to its appeal.

In B.C., the B.C. division, Canadian Cancer Society, and the B.C. Cancer Foundation will campaign jointly for $200,000. The money will be used to finance education, provide treatment facilities, educate the public to cancer's danger signals and assist needy patients.

Through the National Cancer Institute of Canada and through the provincial divisions the Cancer Society supports more than seventy-five cancer research programs in universities, hospitals and research centers across the country. About one-third of the Society's budget goes for this purpose. Mr. R. B. Bucknerfield of Vancouver, national president of the Society, states that "Cancer research is the greatest challenge to our scientists. In its own interest the public dare not permit any worthwhile project to be hampered by lack of funds."

The Governor General's message pointed out that the Cancer Society carries on its work of lay education and welfare through thousands of volunteers working in units in cities, towns and rural communities across the country. There are 82 Units throughout B.C.

C.P.R. Continues Juvenile Safety Campaign

The Juvenile "Safety" program actively sponsored throughout Canada by the Canadian Pacific Railway during the spring seasons of 1953 and 1954, achieved such remarkable results in reduction of accidents involving juveniles trespassing on railway property that the Canadian Pacific efforts toward this cause were recognized in an award from the National Safety Council for its public Safety activities.

While "Safety" in the Company organization and in the providing of "Safe" transportation of the nation's peoples and goods has long been of prime importance with the "Pacific" the matter of carrying Railway Safety education to the public and two juveniles in particular is a relatively new departure and that these efforts should receive such signal recognition in only two years reflects the whole hearted efforts and interest of the railway in the "safety" of our junior citizens.

This award, in the form of a plaque, will be displayed in Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge, on the Alberta District of the Canadian Pacific during this spring. The Alberta District has seen no serious accidents involving juveniles since the inception of its Juvenile Safety Program in 1953.

The railway does not intend to rest on its laurels, however, and the 1955 program of Juvenile Safety training is going forward through newspaper articles, radio programs, and lectures and suitable "Safety" films delivered in selected school districts by members of the Investigation Department.

That "Safety" training at the school level does pay has been proven and it is hoped that the active co-operation of parents in continuing such training in the home, in conjunction with these programs, will be continued and ever brighten new horizons of happiness in this active nation.

Advertising...

Modern advertising is a necessity to hold and build business. Be proud of your business, of the goods you have to sell, of the services you have to offer in your particular line. Show the progressive spirit and the desire to serve by advertising. Do not hide your light under a bushel — proclaim far and wide who you are and what you have to sell and where your place of business is, for public memory is short, and advertising is a powerful aid to all types of businesses. Moreover, people as a general rule shop where they are invited.
